Miss Margaret Northrup is Bride of Hugh M. Wilson

Popular Addison Girl Married to Rathbone Young Man Friday Afternoon — Will Continue as Teacher in Hornell High School for Rest of Year—To Reside at Rathbone.

Miss Margaret J. Northrup, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Northrup and Hugh M. Wilson, son of Mrs. Celia A. Wilson of Rathbone, were united in marriage Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold, pastor of the Addison Baptist Church.

The bride was attractive in an aquamarine crepe gown, and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary E. Adams of Hornell, wore rose beige crepe and her corsage bouquet was vari-colored sweet peas. Ralph Northrup a brother of the bride was best man.

The bride is an accomplished young woman and is popular in Addison and in Hornell where she has been Latin and French teacher for the past six years. She is a graduate of Addison High School and Elmira College.

Mr. Wilson is a well-known industrious farmer having augmented his education by a course in the Agricultural Department of Alfred University.

A wedding luncheon was served the immediate families of the bride and groom and the Rev. and Mrs. Arnold.

The couple left Friday evening by motor for a wedding trip to New York City and Chatham, N. J. where they expected to visit the bride's sister Mrs. Charles Meissner and family.

Mrs. Wilson will continue her teaching in Hornell High School until the end of the school year. After July 1 they will reside in the town of Rathbone where the groom is engaged in farming.

Health Clinic Next Monday

A health clinic, under the auspices of the New York State Health Department, will be held in the Odd Fellows hall, Monday, April 29.

Consultations will begin at 9:20 A. M.

The Steuben County nurse assisted by state doctors and nurses will be in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown with son Ray and daughter Virginia of Ticonderoga and Mrs. Ray Brown of Addison called on Mr. and Mrs. Menzo Husted Wednesday.

PT-A To Meet Tuesday Evening

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association for the month of April will be held in the High School auditorium Tuesday evening, April 30, at 8 o'clock.

The business meeting will be followed by a demonstration of a language lesson by first grade pupils in charge of Miss Evelyn Perry, teacher of the Primary department.

MEET TODAY

The Past Matrons Association of Steuben District, O. E. S., will meet in Addison today Thursday. Luncheon to be served at 12:30 will be followed by the regular afternoon session. A tea, later in the after-

Impressive Easter Services In All Churches At Addison

Ideal Easter Weather—Large Gatherings in All Places of Worship—Cantata a Feature at Presbyterian—New Chimes Are Rung From Baptist Tower—Many New Members Join M. E. Congregation—Children's Service at Redeemer.

Impressive Easter services were held in each of the Addison churches. Perfect weather provided a typical Easter setting and attendance at all services rose to near-record figures. Each of the churches was beautifully decorated, with flowers and plants. Features of the various services were as follows:

First Baptist Church

At 6:30 Easter morning, hymns were sung from the tower room of the church by members of the B. Y. P. U., accompanied by two cornets played by the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold and Francis Jones. Following the singing of the hymns breakfast was enjoyed by the group in the church parlors.

At the regular 10:30 service, the program was as follows: Tower chime concert played by the Rev. Arnold on the new chimes in the church tower, the following numbers being played: "Oh, Jesus, Thou Art Standing", "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross" and "God Will Take Care of You"; piano prelude, Mrs. Ivan Tompkins; hymn, "There Is A Green Hill Far Away"; responsive reading; invocation, Rev. Arnold; choir response, Scripture, Luke's account of the Resurrection; cornet solo, Calvary", Francis K. Jones; prayer, Rev. Arnold; solo, "The Holy City", Miss Grace Slocum; offering; announcements; reception of members; hymn, "I know That My Redeemer Liveth"; Easter message, musical reading; hymn, "Christ Arose", congregation; benediction; postlude.

The Easter message was presented as a musical reading with the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold, pastor, as the reader. The message, in poetic form, and of Rev. Mr. Arnold's own composition, was set to the music of "Poet and Peasant Overture", the hymn, "Break Thou The Bread of Life" and "Sweet Bye and Bye" and the vocal solo "Saved By Grace" was a part of the reading; the following solos were sung: "The Palms", Miss Ruth Dense; "Christ Died", Miss Leanore Runyan; the chorus of "Saved By Grace", Carlton Ford; the hymn, "Bread of Heaven, On Thee We Feed" was sung as a duet by Misses Bernice and Amy Aumick. The hymn "Tis Midnight and "On Olive's Brow" was sung by a trio consisting of Miss Grace Slocum, Miss Leanore Runyan and Miss Ruth Dense. A cornet solo, "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today" was played by Francis K. Jones. The following hymns were played as piano solos by Mrs. Henry Sherwood: "In The Garden", "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Memories of Galilee". The number "From Every Stormy Wind That Blows" was played by Mrs. Sherwood and Mrs. Ivan Tompkins, using two pianos in unison.

At various points throughout the musical reading, pictures of the Christ were flashed on the screen. Mr. and Mrs. Francis K. Jones and Mrs. Nellie Benedict were received as new members.

The Sunday evening service was in charge of the BYPU which presented the missionary stereopticon picture "Around The World in Forty Minutes".

First Presbyterian Church

The order of service at the Presbyterian Church was as follows: A Quiet Moment; Sentences; "Gloria Patri"; prayer for the day; Lord's Prayer; hymn, "Hark, Ten Thousand Harps and Voices"; Scripture, Luke 24:1-10; prayer, Seven-Fold Amen (choir); Sacrament of Gifts; trumpet solo, "Stabat Mater", by Charles Makler of Ithaca College of Music; cantate, "The Thorn Crowned King"; benediction; silent prayer; organ postlude.

Musical selections of the cantata, which were all splendidly rendered, were as follows: "Let The Righteous Be Glad", choir; alto solo, "He Chose the Cross of Shame", Miss Charlotte Ripley; "There Was No Other Way", Mens chorus; "Betrayed", tenor solo, Raymond Young and choir; "The Thorn Crowned King", soprano solo, Miss Esther Hannahs; "Let Him Be Crucified", bass solo W. Hannah and choir; "Alas, and Did My Savior Bleed", women's trio, Misses Jean Ripley, Elizabeth Perry and Charlotte Ripley; "They Laid Him Away", soprano solo, Mrs. Alberta Sherwood and choir; "Have Faith In God", tenor and bass duet, Fay Axtell and Wyckoff Sherwood; "He Is Risen" bass solo, Donald Gillespie, and choir; "Glory In The Garden", soprano and alto duet, Misses Janet Whitmore and Elizabeth Perry and choir; "Praise Ye The

Sunbeam Class Meets With Miss Symonds

Miss Arloween Symonds entertained members of the Sunbeam class with an Easter party at her home Friday evening.

Decorations were in keeping with Easter and the favors were filled Easter baskets.

Games and music were the amusements of the evening.

Refreshments were served to the following guests: Eleanor Miles, Orpha Miles, Velma Strait, Claribel Hill, Ruth Wormley, Arvaline Nicholson, Wilma Nicholson, Esther Herrington, Kate Symonds and the hostess, Arloween Symonds.

Mrs. Brotzman Home From Philadelphia

Mrs. Lloyd Brotzman returned home last week after a two weeks stay in Philadelphia with Mr. Brotzman who was a patient at the Jefferson Hospital in that City.

Mr. Brotzman is now being cared for at the home of Mrs. Della Miller Steedle in Riverton, N. J.

Dark Horse Takes Lead in Big Word Derby

A dark horse, modestly styled "Twenty Grand", dashed around the curve and into the lead in the ADVERTISER Big Word Derby late yesterday. "Twenty Grand" as he chooses to be known, isn't long on bragadocia. His comment, beaming with confidence, nevertheless, was simply phrased and much to the point. It read:

Big Word Derby,
Addison Advertiser,
Gentlemen:

Put the stop watch on this one—

Phenyltetramethyltriamidoalphanaphtyldiphenylcarbinol.

Here we have a total of fifty-three letters which should make at least a couple of the contestants in this interesting Big Word Derby pull down a few more of the dusty tomes and dig in for another evening's research.

The word, gentlemen, is the name for the crystalline grains of a shining bronze color, the chemical symbol being C33 H1 N3 HC1. It is used for dying cotton, wool and silk. Its common name is "Victoria Blue".

C'mon, Emory. C'mon, George.
"Twenty Grand"

The word above is the first of the contest jaw breakers to pass the half-century mark. It eclipses the best previous entry of Emory H. Chase by a full five letters and leaves "Twenty Grand" eight letters to the good over George Northrup who was pacing along in the runnerup position as last week's paper went to press.

"Twenty Grand" apparently knows his scientific compounds, as the 53-letter word reveals; and he apparently has followed the races before as the pseudonym beneath which he modestly conceals his identity has been borrowed from a famous blue-ribbon stepper of a few years ago.

Probably Emory and George will be startled beyond words by the speed and gusto with which "Twenty Grand" has gained the inside track. Both are known to show their best under fire, however, and one or both of them may be depended on to stage a spirited comeback before the end of the contest three weeks hence.

The winner—whoever he may be—will be rewarded with a year's subscription to the ADDISON ADVERTISER.

Warden Reed Finds Deer In Wire Fence

Game Warden Ray M. Reed came upon a strange sight Sunday when he discovered a buck deer which had become entangled in a two strand barbed wire fence on the John Dorr farm in this township.

The front legs and one hind leg of the animal were so entangled in the wire that only part of his weight rested on the ground. It is thought the animal had been dead about three weeks.

The fact that a deer trail approaches the fence ending in a rise, is explained as the probable reason for the unusual circumstance. As the deer attempted to leap this elevation it must have gone sidewise and caught in the wires.

That the wires did not break under the weight of the animal is accounted for by the fact that they are strung between two trees which have grown partly around the wires.

Mr. Reed also discovered a flock of seven deer on the Joseph Benjamin farm in the town of Woodhull.

Main Street Then Known as Tuscarora — Steuben Street Then Known as Mill Street—Business Directory Cites Many Names Familiar in History of Section.

A map of Addison, believed to date back 75 years, was recently left at the ADVERTISER office by Wayne Berry of Troupsburg. The map was charted out in much detail and lists completely the names of all Addison residents of that generation.

What is now Main street was, according to the map, then known at Tuscarora street. property on the side nearest the river was recorded in the name of Mrs. W. Price, O. Seymour, A. Curtis, S. E. Berry, W. A. Smith. Other names of property holders along the section now occupied by the First National Bank, the Gilhooley restaurant, etc., are obscured through fragmentary scratches and chips on the map, as are also the names of property owners on the other side of the street. On the Colwell and Wombough street section we find the names of G. Colwell, S. Colwell, T. Kennedy, J. Inman, H. C. McKay, E. F. Cook, D. Phillips and L. Wombough. Tuscarora street residents include R. Blakeslee, Mr. Park, F. O. Rogers, D. Smith and L. C. Knapp, also Col. George Farnham, D. Darrin, S. Lewis and Mrs. W. Wombough. The upper portion of Tuscarora street is described as a plank road.

What is now known as Steuben street is listed as Mill street on the map. The names of W. B. Knapp and A Dudley are deciphered among

The characters were: Simon Peter, Wilson Horton; James, Adrian Hackett; John, Wilbur Horton; A Roman Soldier, Charles Card; A blind man, Laverne Croft; Salome, mother of James and John, Doris Brown; Mary of Magdale, Esther Symonds; Mary of Alphaeus, Marion Miller; Mary, mother of Jesus, Minnie Miller; A slave girl, Carmen Hackett; A Jewish child, Ruth Wormley.

Birthday Party For Alenda Leach

Mrs. Lawrence Leach delightfully entertained at her home Saturday afternoon in honor of the sixth birthday anniversary of her daughter Alenda whose birthday was Sunday April 21.

Games were supervised by Mrs. LaRue Symonds, one of the enjoyable features being an Easter egg hunt out of doors.

Covers were placed for twenty guests at tables prettily decorated in pink, green and white, the centerpiece being a large Easter rabbit with nest of eggs. A decorated birthday cake with six candles and individual cakes with a candle for each guest added much to the already attractive tables.

Little Miss Leach received many pleasing gifts from her friends.

As each guest departed for their homes they were given favors of Easter bags filled with candy Easter chicks and eggs.

Those attending were: Marion Hibbard, Mildred Hibbard, Luella Miller, Eloise Whittenhall, Gilbert Hackett, David Davis, Louise Wheatcraft, Laura Symonds, Gene Wheatcraft, Joyce Munson, Stuart Munson, Betty Munson, Edwin Symonds, Kathryn Mason, Harold Paul, Winifred Munson, Junior Strait, Billy Strait, Matt Leach, the guest of honor, Alenda Leach, Mrs. La Rue Symonds and the hostess, Mrs. Lawrence Leach.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

Frank C. Walker, New York lawyer and friend of the President was drafted this week to take charge of the 5 billion dollar relief fund. He will take over the management of a clearing house for spending the huge sum recently voted by Congress.

A strike in the Toledo plant of the Chevrolet Motor Company has thrown some 2,300 workers workers out of their jobs. When a part of the force went on strike company officials shut down the plant. The company offered a five per cent increase in wages but the union demanded a closed shop and 70 cents an hour minimum wages with abolishment of the "speed-up" system.

Over 3,000 people were killed and more than 10,400 seriously injured in a terrific earthquake that shook the island of Formosa Sunday. The earthquake was followed by Aires through the stricken areas, all water mains and reservoirs being disrupted by the shock. Money damage was estimated at three million dollars. The flimsy villages of the native headhunters escaped with little damage.

Senator Huey Long burst forth again this week to condemn his Democratic foes for taking the distribution of Louisiana relief funds away from state control. After the Kingfish hurled such epithets as "chinch bug" and "ignoramous" at New Deal chiefs his colleagues in the Senate concluded to treat Huey with silence, rather than attempt to exchange abusive words. PWA Ickes and Relief Chief Hopkins were the especial targets for the Long attack.

Wellington Hammond Succumbs After Two Weeks Serious Illness

Learned Miller's Trade as a Young Man at Presho—Looked for Gold in Montana—Returned East and Most of Later Life Spent in Addison — Funeral Monday Afternoon.

Wellington Hammond, a highly respected resident of Addison for many years died at eleven o'clock Thursday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ethel Smyth, on Front street. Although seriously ill for only two weeks, he had been in failing health for several years. He was 81 years of age.

Mr. Hammond was born in the locality known as Mead's Creek, near Campbell, January 22, 1853, a son of Joseph and Abigail Bixby Hammond. When about 21 years of age he went to Presho, where he learned the miller's trade in a mill operated by Luke Gibson. The mill was owned by Fox, Weston & Co. of Gangs Mills in partnership with Mr. Hammond's uncle, Mason Hammond, who held a half interest. After several years in Presho, Mr. Hammond journeyed westward to Montana, where two cousins, Frank and Simeon Remington, were engaged in a gold mining venture. The red man was yet a hazard to be reckoned with in the western country, however, and the distrust of the Indian for the "paleface" brought the young adventurers' aspirations in the gold region to an abrupt and ill fated ending. Leaving their cabin one morning with the door securely locked, Mr. Hammond and his associates came back in the evening to find it burned to the ground. With it had gone all their clothes, blankets and other possessions.

Shortly thereafter Mr. Hammond returned to the east, and, after brief periods in Presho and Campbell, came to Addison, where he was engaged for a considerable period in operating the "hoist" which at that time transferred shipments between the Erie and the narrow gauged road then known as the Addison & Pennsylvania, later known as the B & O. Subsequently Mr. Hammond was employed at the Curtis and Paxton mill, then under the management of Frank Ballard and later of a Mr. Conklin.

After several years with Curtis & Paxton, Mr. Hammond went to So-

SUPREME COURT COUNTY OF CHEMUNG

The Pennsylvania Joint Stock Land Bank of Philadelphia, Plaintiff
—against—
Herbert B. Hughson, Violet Hughson, Doris C. Hughson, John B.. McCarty, Katherine D. McCarty, Robert McCarty, Marion McCarty, Dwight Williamson, Margaret Williamson, Knight & Bostwick, Alfred D. Wilcox, Floyd C. Denmark, Tew Motor Sales, Inc., Hayt Engineering Corporation of Corning, New York, Sylvenus D. Hastings, Leonard B. Elliott, Helen C. Battin, John D. Kniffin, New York Central Electric Corporation, John H. Bauman, Bath National Bank and Charles Flasphaler, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale made and entered on the 23rd day of April, 1935, in the above entitled-action, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Court House in the City of Elmira, Chemung County, N. Y., on the 6th day of June, 1935, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Big Flats in the County of Chemung and State of New York, a small strip being in the Town of Corning, Steuben County, New York, and said parcel being described in a deed from Reuben M. Mundy to Nicholas S. Mundy dated May 20th, 1845, recorded in Chemung County Clerk's office in Liber 16 of Deeds at page 14, as being a part of a certain fourteen hundred (1400) acres tract of land patented to Egbert Dewitt and Jacob R. Dewitt, beginning on the northerly bank of the Chemung River on the line of said fourteen hundred acre tract, running from thence westerly up said river ten (10) chains to the corner of lands now in the occupation of Jacob Wormley; thence north along said Wormley's line one hundred one (101) chains and fifty (50) links to a stake and stones; thence east so far as to come directly north of the northwest corner of the Hammond farm so as to follow down the Hammond line as it now stands between the two farms to the river; from thence up the river to the place of beginning, supposed to contain two hundred (200) acres of land, be the same more or less; being the same premises devised by Nicholas S. Mundy to Simeon Hughson for life and after his death to his son, Frederick W. Hughson, and to Frederick W. Hughson for life, and after his death to the lawful heirs of said Frederick W. Hughson, and being known as the home farm of Nicholas S. Mundy, deceased.

EXCEPTING and RESERVING the lands conveyed to and occupied by the Erie Railroad Company by deed dated the 20th day of August, 1840, and recorded in Chemung County Clerk's Office in Vol. 7 of Deeds, at page 407, containing one and ninety-six hundredths (1.96) acres. Also lands conveyed to New York, Lackawanna & Western Railway Company by deed dated May 17th, 1902 and recorded in Liber 79, page 439, containing eight and sixty-two hundredths (8.62) acres. Also lands conveyed to Elmira, Corning & Waverly Railway Company by condemnation proceedings dated August 16th, 1910, and recorded in Liber 9 of Lis Pendens at page 363, containing one and thirty-seven hundredths (1.37) acres.

ALSO ALL THAT OTHER TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Corning, County of Steuben and State of New York, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point in the western boundary line of the Home Farm belonging to parties of the second part (The Hughsons) at an old oak tree which marks the southeast corner of lands belonging to one Scudder, running thence north eighty-two degrees west nine and forty-eight hundredths (9.48) chains; thence north five degrees east one and twenty-one hundredths (1.21) chains; thence north eighty-two degrees west six and fifteen hundredths (6.15) chains to a point in the east boundary line of the John Burt Farm; thence south six degrees thirty minutes west along the east line of the John Burt property to a point in the south line of the abandoned Chemung Canal Feeder; thence in a southeasterly direction following the southern boundary of the abandoned Chemung Canal Feeder to its intersection with the west line of the Home Farm to parties of the second part; thence in a northerly direction along said west boundary line to the point of beginning, containing altogether about thirty-six (36) acres of land, be the same more or less.

It is the intention and purpose of this deed to correct a deed given by Mary L. Owen and Louise Hughson Way to Frederick W. Hughson by deed dated January 31st, 1900, and recorded in Steuben County Clerk's Office in Volume 262 of Deeds at page 426. The property described herein being a part of the residuary estate of Nicholas S. Mundy whose will was probated in Chemung County October 29th, 1894, and recorded in Chemung Co. Surrogate's Office in Volume 14 of Wills at page 713, and also recorded in the Steuben County Clerk's Office in Volume 332 of Deeds, at page 293, said residuary estate having been willed to Catherine Hughson and Louisa Owen; Catherine Hughson having died leaving a will devising all her property to two grandchildren, Frederick W. Hughson and Louise Hughson Way, party of the first part herein; Louise Owen having died leaving a will devising her residuary estate, including the above described property, to Louise Hughson Way, party of the first part herein, Frederick Hughson having died leaving a will devising properties, including the property herein described, to his three children Simeon M., Mary F., and Herbert B. Hughson, parties of the second part herein.

The property herein described includes not only the property described in the deed given by Mary L. Owen and Louise Hughson Way to Frederick W. Hughson by deed dated January 31st, 1900, and recorded in Steuben County Clerk's office in Volume 262 of deeds at page 426, in which deed the property was erroneously described as bounded on the north by the Chemung Canal Feeder "and" on the south by lands of Edwin Meeks" when the description should have been "on the south by the Chemung Canal Feeder and north by lands of Edwin Meeks", but it also includes the small strip east of such premises once belonging to one Allard and late the property of Nicholas Mundy, and it also includes the land which reverted to Nicholas Mundy or his heirs upon the abandonment of the Chemung Canal Feeder and the highway bounding it on the north.

The premises herein described are shown on a map of lands belonging to the estate of Nicholas Mundy on which the thirty-six acres hereinbefore described are shown as the "Hill Lot", being the same premises which Simeon M. Hughson and wife and Mary F. Hughson by their deed dated the 5th of April, A. D., 1929, and recorded in Chemung and Steuben County Clerk's offices in Deed Book ..... page ..... granted and conveyed all their rights, title and interest unto Herbert B. Hughson and Violet Hughson his wife, in fee.

Dated at Elmira, N. Y., this 23rd day of April, 1935.

Congress and War Profits

terested in measures to prevent war than in theoretical schemes that go into effect after war begins. What can be done, for example, to prevent munition makers from creating war scares at home or abroad? There is enough evidence to warrant the belief that this is not an imaginary evil. I should suppose that the best method might be to license all manufacturers of lethal weapons and of military transport and require that their books and all their correspondence should be continually open to inspection by some responsible government authority. What can be done to reduce the dangers of our being drawn into a war in which we mean to be neutral? This is a very difficult problem. But I think we know enough to justify the position that direct trade with the belligerents is at the risk of the trader. But even this position would not meet the most difficult problem of neutrality, and that is trade with a neutral country which is really destined for a belligerent. Mr. Charles Warren, who is a great authority in these matters, thinks that this trade must be protected by direct diplomatic negotiation.

A very troublesome problem is that raised by propaganda designed to force the country to take sides in the war. What can be done about that? For one thing, it should be made illegal, I think, to recruit troops on American soil. For the rest the surest disinfectant against propaganda would be supplied, I think, by a Congressional committee continually inquiring into the activities of organizations conducting propaganda.

The best antidote to propaganda is publicity which exposes its technique, reveals who is running it, and shows who is paying for it. The only kind of propaganda which is really dangerous or which can be called objectionable to American freedom of speech is masked propaganda from concealed sources and by devious methods. Suppression is impracticable and undesirable, but exposure to the light of day is very important when the war fever is raging, and nations, desiring to subvert our neutrality, will stop at nothing to gain their ends if they think they can get away with it.

No one must suppose that any of these measures provides more than a small additional protection against the danger of war. The real protection is to be found only in a foreign policy that deals with the real issues of war and peace and is strong enough to prevail.

Church of the Redeemer

A Sung Eucharist with full choir and procession and communion was held at the Church of the Redeemer at 6:00 o'clock Easter morning. The 10:30 service started with a solemn procession singing "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today" and was followed by a communion service, the Lord's Prayer, collect and summary of the law.

Then followed in order: "Kyrie", by the choir; collect for the day; Epistle; hymn, "Welcome, Happy Morning", junior choir; Gospel with responses by the full choir; creed; announcements; hymn, "Allelujah, Allelujah, Allelujah, The Strife Is O'er, The Battle Won", by men of the choir; children's service awards for Lenten missions; awards of baptismal certificates; offertory; solo, "Angels, Roll that Rock Away", Miss Esther House; prayer for whole state of Christ's church; general confession; absolution; comfortable words; "Sursum Corda"; preface for Easter day "Sanctus" full choir; "Benidictus", full choir; prayer; oblation; invocation; Lord's Prayer; "Agnus Dei", solo by Miss Esther House; prayer of humble access; distribution of communion.

The communion hymn "Oh, Salutaris Hostia", full choir; prayer of thanksgiving; "Gloria In Excelsis Deo", full choir post communion; collect; blessing; Last Gospel; recessional with hymn "Come Ye Thankful, Raise The Strain", full choir; prayer for dismissal.

Miss Kathrine Darrin was at the organ. Members of the choir were: Dr. Amos G. Stiker, Harold Lewis, Gilbert Brown, Harry Fritts, Donald Van Cise, Edward Auringer, Mrs. Guy Mayer, Mrs. Peter Laffkas, Miss Esther House, Miss Betty Gilhooley, Miss Norma Closson. Members of the junior choir were: Janet Taylor, Mary Whitmore, Geraldine Pepper, Helen Auringer, Martha Laffkas, Shirley Johnson and Dorothy Van Cise.

During the children's service, Father Withey catechized the children on what they had learned at the mission services during the Lenten period. Subjects included devotional prayers, grace at meals, rules for prayer, etc. Each child then came forward to take down the resolutions which each individually had written out an pinned on the large wooden cross at the beginning of Lent. After placing the resolutions at the foot of the cross each received an Easter plant as a reward for faithfully keeping his or her Lenten resolution: the ceremony symbolized the fruition of resolutions faithfully kept into beautiful and worthwhile things of life.

Miss Esther Whitmore was presented a set of purple ribbon markers for devotional book as a reward for bringing the greatest number of visitors to the Lenten Mission services. The ribbons bore the symbols of faith, hope and charity. The consolation prize was awarded to Miss Mary Kelly. Each child who had been faithful in attendance at the Lenten services was awarded a special gift in the form of a mounted reproduction of Raphael's "Sistine Madonna" in colors. Baptism ceretificates were given to the following who were recently baptized: Edward Auringer, Shirley Auringer, Robert Johnson, Shirley Johnson, Leona Van Cise.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Thomas A. Withey, priest-in-charge of the church. Edward Auringer was the flagbearer, Gilbert Brown was crucifer and Robert Johnson altar boy.

Sunday evening the full choir of the Church of the Redeemer sang the Easter music at Festal Evenson St. John's Church, Lawrenceville. Following the service a social time was enjoyed at the parish house.

Casey At The Bat!

The Classic of Diamond Verse

Who remembers Casey, mighty Casey, Ernest T. Thayer's fictional slugger, who was the idol of the fans in Grandfather's day. Parodies galore have been patterned after Mr. Thayer's immortal diamond epic and the fame of mighty Casey has lived on, strong in the tradition of the game. In the early days of the national pastime, the name of Casey, his fame—and his inglorious strikeout—were on the lips of every schoolboy from coast to coast.

That of course was before the great Babe and others of a later day had emblazoned the headlines of the sporting pages. Young and old, however, will get a kick from Casey At The Bat. If you think they didn't take their ball games serious in olden times, just read this over. Then paste it down in the old family scrapbook for your grandson to read. It will be just as interesting to him.

The outlook wasn't brilliant for the Mudville nine that day;
The score stood four to two but one inning more to play.
And then when Cooney died at first and Barrows did the same,
A sickly silence fell upon the patrons of the game.

A straggling few got up to go in deep despair. The rest
Clung to that hope that springs eternal in the human breast;
They thought if only Casey could get a whack at that-
We'd put up even money now with Casey at the bat.

But Flynn preceded Casey as did also Jimmy Blake
And the former was a lulu and the latter was a cake;
So upon the stricken multitude grim melancholy sat
For there seemed to be but little chance of Casey's getting to the bat.

But Flynn let go a single to the wonderment of all
And Blake, the much despised, tore the cover off the ball;
And when the dust had lifted and the men saw what had occurred,
There was Jimmie safe at second and Flynn a-huggin third.

Then from five thousand throats or more there rose a lusty yell;
It rumbled through the valley and it rattled in the dell;
It knocked upon the mountain and recoiled upon the flat
For Casey, mighty Casey, was advancing to the bat.

There was ease in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place;
There was pride in Casey's bearing and a smile on Casey's face
And when, responding to the cheers, he lightly doffed his hat,
No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Casey at the bat.

Ten thousand eyes were on him as he rubbed his hands with dirt;
Five thousand tongues applauded as he wiped them on his shirt.
Then while the writhing pitcher ground the ball into his hip,
Defiance gleamed in Casey's eye, a sneer curled Casey's lip.

And now the leather covered sphere came hurtling through the air,
And Casey stood a-watching it in haughty grandeur there.
Close by the sturdy batsman the ball unheeded sped-
"That aint my style," said Casey. "Strike one!" the umpire said.

From the benches, black with people, there went up a muffled roar,
Like the beating of the storm-waves on a stern and distant shore.
"Kill him! Kill the umpire!" shouted some one in the stand;
And it's likely they'd have killed him had not Casey raised his hand.

With a smile of Christian charity great Casey's visage shone;
He stilled that rising tumult; he bade the game go on;
He signalled to the pitcher and once more the spheroid flew;
But Casey still ignored it and the umpire said: "Strike two!"

"Fraud!" cried the maddened thousands, and the echo answered "Fraud!"
But one scornful look from Casey and the audience was awed.
They saw his face grow stern and cold, they saw his muscles strain,
And they knew that Casey wouldn't let that ball go by again.

The sneer is gone from Casey's lip, his teeth are clenched in hate;
He pounds with cruel violence his bat upon the plate.
And now the pitcher holds the ball and now he lets it go,
And now the air is shattered by the force of Casey's blow.

Oh! somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright;
The band is playing somewhere and somewhere hearts are light.
And somewhere men are laughing and somewhere children shout;
But there is no joy in Mudville—mighty Casey had struck out.

Three Hundred Young Men From Western New York Eligible for CMTC

More than seven hundred young men have the opportunity to apply for this summer's Citizens' Military Training Camps under the increased quota of 4,400 authorized for the Second Corps Area, Major General Dennis E. Nolan, U. S. Army, announced today at Governors Island.

In Western New York, three hundred young men are wanted to complete the enrollment quota for the Fort Niagara encampment, opening July 2.

Another group of three hundred are being sought in New Jersey and Delaware to take the C. M. T. C. training at Camp Dix, N. J., for thirty days beginning July 9.

New York City youths will be occepted as alternates for the Plattsburg C. M. T. Camp, which will open July 2, the Army announcement said. The Military Training Camps Association, with offices at No. 19 West 44th Street, Manhattan, is furnishing application blanks and otherwise assisting candidates to qualify for the camps.

All necessary expenses, including transportation to camp and return, wholesome food, uniforms, athletic equipment, laundry service, and medical attention, are furnished by the Government. Camps run for thirty days. No obligation for future military service is incurred by those beginning C. M. T. C. training.

Legion Groups Preparing For Memorial Day

Preliminary plans for the observance of Memorial Day were discussed at a meeting of Williams-Greengrass Post No. 730, American Legion, in the Legion rooms Thursday evening. Following out the customs of other years, a committee will be appointed to make arrangements for the day's program. The question of conducting a Poppy sale was left with the Auxiliary.

A letter was read from the county Legion officials regarding the forthcoming visit of State Commander Dwight Sullivan, to Steuben County. A banquet and dance will be held in his honor at Bath on April 27th. It is expected that a large number from the local post will attend.

The possibility of providing funds with which to purchase eye glasses for school children whose parents are not able to provide these necessary articles was discussed. Commander Elmer C. Bovee was authorized to confer with Mrs. B. F. Short, president of the Auxiliary unit, regarding this project.

Vice-commander Clare Chart presided in the absence of Commander Bovee. About twenty members were in attendance.

First and Only Indoor Rally of Scouts and Troops in This District This Season — Will Be No First Places—Awards Will Be Made to All Troops That Qualify—Silver Bar Awards to Be Presented.

Assistant Scout Executive, Fred D. Quinn of Corning, was in this district during the past week to complete the local arrangements for the rally of all boy scout troops to be held in the high school at Painted Post, Tuesday, April 30.

This is the first and only indoor rally of scouts and troops in this district this season. It is expected that a great many troop officials and friends and parents will attend. Ample provisions will be made to seat guests.

The program is non-competitive in the sense that no one troop will win at the expense of any other troop or troops. There will be no first places in any event. The whole competition will be against a standard and awards will be made to all troops that qualify.

The program as announced by District Commissioner, L. E. Wade, will include assembly of all troops at 7:30 P. M. and assignment to floor.

Promptly thereafter troops will be called numerically to demonstrate one or more class requirements for the approval of the audience. The subject will be chosen and announced by the Troop Scoutmaster.

Following the floor demonstration each troop will fall in by patrols for a thorough inspection. This inspection will be based on the National Council Standard and appearance awards will be made for uniforms correctly worn. Two appearance awards will be made.

After all troops have completed their demonstration and inspection, a ten-minute interval will be given for scouts to prepare and display one or more merit badge exhibits.

All scouts recruited since September 1 will be inducted by Assistant Executive Fred D. Quinn. These scouts will stage a surprise stunt sponsored by the firm of Benjamin Brown, Inc., who hold a license as distributor of the official Boy Scout uniform.

Recognition will be made of all scouts who have advanced to second and first class rank since since January 1, 1935. These exercises will culminate a quarter of intensive attention to advancement. "Tired Tenderfoot and Slow Second Class Scouts will NOT be recognized" according to Mr. Quinn.

At this point on the program some Star and Life awards will be made by the Commissioner in charge of the rally.

A representative of the Corning Rotary Club will attend the rally and present the Silver Bar Awards for 1934. Twenty-nine troops were qualified for this the highest honor granted by the Steuben Council.

The rally will also afford any opportunity for the recognition of those troops that qualify in recruiting during the past winter. The list includes Nos. 2, 3, 11, 20, 21, 23 of Corning; 29, Painted Post; 42, Campbell; 52, Coopers; 54, Monterey and 56 Gibson.

In a closing ceremony, Scout Executive Percy L. Dunn will outline the council plans for the Council Camporee at Hornell, the National Jamboree at Washington, D. C., and the program for Camp Gorton in 1935.

The program at Painted Post will open at 7:30 o'clock and be concluded at 9:30. Boys interested to know more about Scouting are welcome to attend. An invitation has been extended to rural school units and juvenile groups to attend. Membership in Scouting is open to all boys past twelve years of age and applications to join may be secured and field at this rally.

Home Bureau Meetings Planned

April 29th.—Wayland Home Bureau will hold a tour of homes where living rooms have been rearranged and will also have the first demonstration in making small articles for living rooms. The meeting will begin at 10:00 o'clock and a schedule of the homes to be visited may be learned by calling Mrs. Robert Stein.

May 1st.—Painted Post Home Bureau unit will meet to discuss soap and water softeners. The place of meeting may be learned by calling Mrs. Kenneth Graham.

May 1st.—Atlanta unit will meet at the Campfire rooms at 1:30 for a lesson in reconditioning furniture.

County-Wide Meeting Planned For May 9th

The Executive Committee of the Steuben County Home Bureau met county-wide Spring Council meeting to be held in Bath May 9th. Committee members present were; chairman, Mrs. H. D. Wood of Corning; vice chairman, Mrs. Aaron Putnam of Wheeler; secretary, Mrs. R. P. Thatcher of Canisteo, and Mrs. F. W. Ives of Avoca. Routine reports were given and the committee also discussed the possibility of attendance at a quarterly meeting of the Western District of the New York State Federation of Home Bureaus which will be held at Normandy Inn at Wallington on April 29th.

Final arrangements for the Council Meeting will be published very soon. Representatives of all of the 20 units in the county will be invited to attend and the meeting will begin with a luncheon and a program for the afternoon. This is the time when plans are made for the work to be included on the Home Bureau program for the remainder of 1935 and for the spring of 1936 so it is one of the important occasions of the year.

Reports of project work that has been carried on during the past year will be given as follows: Clothing, Mrs. Aaron Putnam; household management, Mrs. F. W. Ives; landscaping and recreation, Mrs. Leon Fenton; foods and nutrition, Mrs. H. D. Wood; health, Mrs. Arch Sanford; housing, Mrs. Arling Cobb; and buying, Mrs. R. P. Thatcher. Each committee member will lead a project discussion to discover what local units need for the coming year.

Spring Council is also the time when a nominating committee is elected to prepare nominations for vacancies occurring on the County Executive Committee at the time of annual meeting in the fall. Committee members whose terms expire this year are Mrs. Arling Cobb of Greenwood who was appointed last spring to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. Leroy Smith of Hornell; Mrs. Arch Sandford who is completing a three year term. The nominating committee to be elected will be composed of three members, one chosen from each district represented by a retiring member.

New Chevrolet Assembly Plant Formally Opened At Baltimore

City Declares Civic Holiday to Celebrate Addition to Local Industries of First Automobile Plant—Deemed Most Efficient in the Industry.

The Chevrolet Motor Company's 80,000-car-a-year assembly plant at Baltimore, Md., was formally opened April 9, and is now producing both passenger cars and trucks.

The City of Baltimore virtually made a civic holiday of the date, to celebrate the addition to its varied industries of its first automobile plant, and to welcome formally the representatives of the General Motors Corporation and Chevrolet Motor Company who attended the opening ceremonies. Official proclamation by the Governor of Maryland and by the Mayor of Baltimore welcomed the automobile officials to the State and the City. Afterthe flag raising at the new plant, and the inspection of the new buildings and equipment, a formal banquet was given by the Association of Commerce in honor of General Motors and Chevrolet visitors. The speakers included Governor Harry W. Nice of Maryland, Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President and W. S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors; M. E. Coyle, president and general manager, and Adam J. Hazlett, president Association of Commerce.

In its structural design, its layout, mechanical equipment and processes, the Baltimore plant may be looked upon as an exposition of five years' progress in automotive manufacturing methods, since it is the industry's first major building development since 1929. Chevrolet engineers and production authorities deem the new plant the most efficient in the industry, but freely give the credit to many new developments in machinery and equipment that were available for the first time for use in planning a complete assembly plant.

However, even if the plant could boast none of its many equipment features that are to be found nowhere else, it still would represent a marked advance over any of the nine earlier Chevrolet plants, because it was planned by the same veteran staff of Chevrolet experts who had built the others, and who therefore were enabled to create at Baltimore a tenth structure incorporating the cumulative benefits of many years in both planning and operating plants of similar specialized service. This experience was especially valuable in the design of the main assembly building, whose structural layout includes many innovations. Here for the first time utilization is made of overhead galleries (served by conveyors) either for the storage of materials to be fed continuously to sub-assembly lines immediately below them, or for the final operations on bodies preliminary to mounting them on chassis.

Though correctly called an assembly plant, the Baltimore operation is more than the name implies, for it is designed not alone for fitting together the component units that comprise complete automobiles, but to perform the scores of preliminary and finishing operations that come under the head of manufacturing.

Visitors will enter the plant by the two-story administration building (50 x 242), facing Camp Holabird on Broening Highway. Immediately back of the administration building lies the main shop, 600 feet wide, and running 980 feet toward the west. One-third of this building, on the south side, is the Fisher Body plant, separated by a brick partition from the Chevrolet side except for the portal by which bodies roll on conveyors to the car assembly plant.

Farther west are the car conditioning shop, 80 x 245 feet, where cars fresh from the assembly plant are given their final tune-up and inspection preliminary to shipping, ready for delivery by dealers to their purchasers; a loading dock, 50 x 315 feet, and a powerhouse, 50 x 90 feet, above which rises a 260-foot smoke stack that already is established as a new land-mark in the Holabird district.

Twenty-Eight Schools To Take Part in Track Meet At Alfred

Scheduled for April 27 at University Athletic Field—Trophy to Be Awarded to High School Winning Most Events—Speaking Contest for Girls in Afternoon.

Twenty-eight high schools have already sent in their applications to take part in the 27th annual Interscholastic Field and Track Meet to be held at Merrill Field, Alfred University, Friday, May 3.

Preliminary events will be held in the morning at 9:00 o'clock with finals scheduled in the afternoon at 2:00. All sorts of field and track events will be included in the meet.

A trophy is offered as prize to the high school winning the most events. High scorer for the meet will receive special recognition in the form of a trophy. A special award for the best relay team is being planned.

To the winner of first, second or third place in each event will be awarded a medal — gold for first, silver for second and bronze for third. Entertainment and feeding of the athletes will be provided.

Following the close of the meet an archery tournament will be conducted by Alfred Women Archers in interclass competition.

In connection with the Field and Track Meet will be conducted a Speaking Contest for girls in the afternoon at 2:00 P. M. and for boys at 8 P. M. in Kenyon Memorial Hall. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded winners of first second and third prizes in each contest. A stock-judging contest with trophies and banners for winning schools will be a feature of the meet, under the supervision of the Agricultural School.

Specialist Shows How Cheese is Made

A hundred men and women from various parts of Steuben County attended the recent cheese demonstrations given by Dr. H. J. Breuckner of the Dairy Industry Department of the Colleges of Agriculture at Ithaca. The demonstrations were arranged by the Steuben County Home Bureau and were held at Kanona and Troupsburg.

Dr. Breuckner, in his demonstration, showed two methods of making cottage cheese and explained the longer process necessary for the making of the other types of soft unripened cheese which sometimes are called the Neufchatel group. One type is made from skim milk and is called Bakers Cheese. Another is made from whole milk and is called Neufchatel and the third is made from milk containing from 10 to 14 per cent butterfat and is called Cream Cheese. All these types of cheese are made in a similar manner and are practical for making in the average farm home. They are the kinds that are ready to eat as soon as made. They do not improve with age.

In addition to this soft unropened cheese Dr. Breuckner explained how a type of cheese which is sometimes called semihard or hard could be made. This was similar to the "store" cheese that is sometimes called American or Cheddar Cheese. This type is ripened for a period of several weeks depending on the flavor desired. This type of cheese may be pressed into a mould or a similar method is to pack the curd into glass jars and allow the ripening to take place there. Care must be taken in this method and no rubber put on the jar or the force of the gas going out of the cheese will sometimes break the cover and of course, it is desirable for the air to be present for the ripening process. This particular type of hard cheese is called Monterey and was first made in California.

Bulletins on the making of soft, unripened cheese; on making Monterey cheese, and on the preparation of starter for use in all cheese making are available at the Steuben County Home Bureau office at Bath.

Have Chicks Like This at Six Weeks!

EVERY healthy baby chick has the capacity to grow into a big sturdy bird at 6 weeks. Whether or not they develop to the utmost of their ability depends on you.

When you feed chicks on untried and untested feeds, you get uncertain results at 6 weeks. But if you feed your chicks on Purina Startena, then you know that you are bringing out the very best that breeding put into them. At 6 weeks you have big-framed, sturdy birds, well-developed and well-feathered. There's no comparison between them and chicks fed on ordinary feeds.

Start your chicks on Startena—grow them on Growena. You'll have sturdy chicks at six weeks—you'll have big money-making pullets at 5 months. See us today for your supply of Startena and Growena!

Addison Knights Swing Bats To Crash 15-5 Win at Westfield

"Lefty" Flynn Settles Down After Hectic First Inning Hurling Mates to Victory in initial High School Baseball Game—Hickey Swats Mighty Homer, Robbins a Triple in Addison's Big Inning.

The Addison Knights started off the 1935 baseball season with a 15 to 5 win over the Westfield High nine. A thirteen run rally in the 4th inning spelled victory for the Addison nine. "Lefty" Flynn, Addison's pitching ace struck out 12 and allowed Westfield 8 hits. Maurice Robbins was the Knights heavy slugger with a triple and 3 doubles to his credit. "Babe" Hickey with a homer and a single out of three trips to the plate, and "Bill" Mathews, who collected 2 doubles and a single, were other Addison players who hated to see the horsehide stay on the ball.

Hallett the first man to face the rival pitcher went down swinging. Beers drew first blood with a hard hit ball down the third base line for a double. Two wild throws by Dillman accounted for the first Addison run. The next two men at bat were quickly retired.

Flynn walked Stevenson, but retaliated by striking out Cool. Roper the third batter to face the Addison pitcher connected for a two bagger as did Bush who followed him bringing in a run. A fielder's choice on Tomanio's grounder brought in another run. Flynn tightened down to set Dibble on the bench because he had an idea he could locate Lefty's curves. Potter drew a walk but Baker swished the air for the third out.

Robbins, who was caught off third, was the only Addison man to connect in the second. Westfield did better crossing the plate three times. Dillman struck out, Stevenson drew his second walk of the game. The ball beat Cool to first for the second out, but Rooper singled scoring Stevenson. An error by Mathews gave Bush a place on first. Tomanio took advantage of the set-up with a double, scoring two runs. Dibble struck out to end the inning. The third held little action if any.

With the score 5 to 1 against them Mathews started it with a single; Robbins followed with a 3 bagger in the creek, scoring Mathews. Dominic doubled to score Robbins. "Babe" Hickey figured on putting the finishing touches to Dillman's pitching and did it with a circuit clout between right and center, adding two more runs to the Addison score. Gillespie walked to first and added second on a steal. Flynn made a single out of a bunt. Hallet and Beers walked forcing in a run. Gable struck out for the first out of the inning. Mathews slapped out another double bringing in two runs. Robbins singled scoring Mathews. Dominic made two out by hitting thin air. Hickey pounded out a single, shoving two runs across the plate, Hickey added insult to injury by stealing second and then third. Gillespie, Flynn and Hallet all received bases on balls, forcing in a run as did the error placing Beers on first and a wild pitch by Dibble. This inning accounted for 13 of the Knights runs.

The fifth inning accounted for the only other run of the game when a wild pitch let Mathews cross the plate.

Elkland High Here Tomorrow

The Addison High School Knights will open their home schedule tomorrow (Friday) afternoon with the Elkland High School nine as a feature attraction. Coach Hewson's men have already clouted out two victories this week on foreign fields and will be gunning for a third on Friday afternoon. A big turnout is expected.

Smith Holds Elkland to One Lone Bingle

Addison High Wins as Young Pitcher Acquits Himself Nobly on Mound — Knights Slug Out 12 Hits.

The Addison High nine copped its second victory in two days Wednesday by beating Clark Wood's Elkland boys on their own diamond 8 to 3. Making his debut upon the mound, pitcher Smith liked the game so well he allowed the Tanners only one hit.

Elkland's runs were all scored in the second inning on a combination of a hit batsman, two errors, a walk and the lone hit. After that bad stanza there was nothing to it. As far as Elkland was concerned. Smith kept burning the ball over and the home lads were helpless. When anyone did get on base the infield checked off double plays to kill all potential rallies.

The Knights found Behrman's pitching very much to their liking and smashed out 12 solid hits, 3 of them two-baggers from the bats of Mathews, Beers and Hallet. Beers led the stick work with two singles besides his double. Gardner, Mathews, Dominicks and Hickey each had two safe hits.

Following Elkland's scoring in the last of the second, Addison came right back in the first of the third inning to score 5 runs. They made 3 more in the ninth for good measure.

Judging by the first two games, Coach Hewson has developed the rare high school combination of a brace of stellar pitchers and a "murderers row" which should make life miserable for other county flingers this season. A nine which can pound out 24 hits in two days is a dangerous team in any school league.

Members of the Peter Pan and the Pussy Willow Patrols enjoyed a girl scout hike of some distance Tuesday. The two groups separated at the corner of South and Cleveland streets. Messages were transmitted in the Morse code and nature specimens were collected. About noon the girls built a camp fire and prepared dinner. The following enjoyed the hike: Anne Flynn, Peggy Knebel, Barbara Spencer, Mary Lyons, Dorotha Jones, Katherine Sareen, Elaine Howard, Frances Colburn, the councillors, Mary Tobin, Mrs. Harold Smith, and Capt. Dorothy Sareen. Games were played and an enjoyable time was spent by all.

MODERN ENLIGHTENMENT

Medical secrets, vaguely guessed at by the ancients, have sometimes laid dormant and unused for centuries only to be dug up in modern times and put to wider, more practical use. Hippocrates and other ancients used hot water baths and hot water bottles as remedies, but only in recent years has the physiological basis for body-heating actually become recognized.

In 1917 Julius Wagner Von Jauregg began a series of experiments in the attempt to cure some cases of softening of the brain brought on by disease. He worked upon the recently established theory that fever is the result of the body's effort to destroy disease — it should be be judiciously encouraged, but never hysterically fought. He infected patients with malaria, effected improvement over the disease encountered and then cured his patients of the malaria with quinine. He won a Nobel prize for this pioneering, and since that time von Jauregg and others have created most beneficial fevers with drugs, other germs and harmless proteins.

The next step in treating body ailments with heat came when Director Willis Rodney Whitney of General Electric's laboratories found his body grew hot from an accumulation of high frequency waves when he stood in the path of a short-wave radio sending set. Out of that observation Director Whitney developed the radiotherm—a box-like device permeated by short-waves where an ill person might lie and develop a high artificial fever without use of drugs or germs. This apparatus was used quite successfully, but it had one drawback. If a person broke into a sweat inside the box the high frequency current tended to arc, this burning the patient's wet flesh.

To overcome this difficulty Dr. Kettering of the General Motors Company arranged a blast of hot air, coming from an air-conditioner he was working on. Later it was discovered accidentally, that the same theraupic effects could be attained by using the blast of hot air without the short-wave. Experiments with this artificial fever device have cured many human diseases of the most revolting types, and Howard Doub of the Ford Hospital has reported curing animals of tuberculosis; hopes to cure humans in the same way.

Diseased membraneous organs of the body have been recently cured in a similar way, by using small rubber sacks through which is pumped water heated to a high temperature, which produces the effect of fever in the part and restores the organ.

Thus it has been that man groped blindly thru the ages searching for means of curing human ailments. He tried this and he tried that experiment some of which did alleviate suffering and even affected cures. Some of the things the ancient physician did, and even the more modern practitioner, were apparently without sound medical reason, yet often the cure was accomplished, seemingly by miracle. Yet as the light of knowledge unfolds the curtain, man gradually sees revealed before his eyes the reason for many cures formerly unexplainable.

Often through the past centuries devout Christians sorely afflicted by diverse diseases have doubtless mourned for the return of miracles. They have fervently prayed Jesus would return to earth in the flesh, and again lay curative hands upon the sick and make them well. Prayers are often answered, yet in a more practical way that human beings know how to ask. Through the discoveries of medicine and science the dread diseases of the human body are gradually being conquered.

Little by little, miracle by miracle the yoke of man's weakness and susceptibility to untimely diseases is being lifted. As these miracles of healing are accomplished the Christian world should fully realize they are the positive, though sometimes indirect answer to thousands of prayers uttered by suffering humanity, that others might be saved from pain.

A NEW SWINDLE

One of the favorite forms of old-time jokes was the perennial tale of the "city slicker" who pulled this or that fast trick upon the dull-witted country person, who never awoke to the fact he had been tricked until the "sharper" had put a long, safe distance behind him. The "gold-brick" buying American farmer became almost a historic figure of our life some thirty years ago, and even today the old trick is sometimes attempted with a little variation.

WAGGING THE DOG

It can be said with slight grounds for contradiction, the depression has, and is being prolonged by the operation of the New Deal. When Mr. Roosevelt came into office with the biggest majority in history, he announced the New Deal would end the depression and bring the "Forgotten Man" into his place. But slowly the viewpoint of the New Dealers has changed, until today Recovery has become the most kicked-about dog in American history, and Reform has become an unwieldly tail vainly trying to wag the dog.

The President stated on taking office he would try experiments, and if they failed he would abandon them and try other things to bring Recovery. This statement was fair enough, and countless Americans of all parties agreed to cooperate on such a basis. Yet like many pre-election promises Mr. Roosevelt's words have not been followed; experiments were piled one upon another until the country became dizzy with their ramifications and consternated over their contradictions, but never has a move been made to undo a single experiment which showed itself to be rank failure.

Judge after judge throughout the land has declared this or that act of the Administration to be unconstitutional, yet never has there been a retreat from a major experiment thus far been made. Processing taxes have already increased the cost of living in this country, practically dried up our foreign markets for raw cotton and encouraged an unprecedented flood of textiles from Japan which are pouring into this country at a rate thirty-six times as fast as a few years ago. NRA has ruined many a small business man and thrown countless workers out of employment, who employers could not afford to pay the wage scale demanded. NRA and AAA have been found unconstitutional by a dozen judges, yet the Administration will not call a retreat on either of these discredited, major experiments. Actually the government officials have run up the white flag and refused to take a test case of NRA involving the Lumber Code violation, into the Supreme Court. This is in effect an admission that the law as now written is not constitutional. It shows the New Dealers are afraid to submit their acts to the acid test of the highest tribunal in the land.

Among prominent men who have recently had the courage to openly criticize the Administration, is the great economist Roger W. Babson. In a recent newspaper article Mr. Babson said in part:

". . . My chief criticism of the Administration is the fact it has set in motion dangerous and even suicidal forces. It has undermined the people's morale; it has taught politicians to spend recklessly; it has encouraged workers to strike; it has destroyed confidence in thrift and all investments; it has upheld the doctrine of producing less and wasting more.

"Worst of all, it has made the worker believe his interests are different from the interests of his employer. The splitup of our nation into any type of separate groups is socially wicked and economically wrong. Everyone is a wage earner and everyone is a capitalist and the interests of the one are the interests of another.

"The country today is fertile soil for the seeds of discontent sown by radicals and demagogues. In 1932 the 'Forgotten Man' put his faith in the New Deal. Three years later with the relief rolls choked, with the cost of food rising daily and with business still 21 per cent below normal, this same 'Forgotten Man' is wondering who, besides the politicians, have benefited from the New Deal".

These words from a man with no political axe to grind, are a stinging indictment of the Administration policy which aims to turn upside down all the established traditions of our economic life, as well as the tried principles of our government structure. The tail is wagging the dog, but it cannot continue this impossible task very long.

Actually it is doubtful if rural people, on the average, are any more credulous than city people. The numberless millions in fortunes lost on the stock market during this latest debacle and other panics, have been lost by metropolitan people, not by farmers and small tradesmen.

Of course country people as well as city people have fallen for such dodges as paying fictitious attorneys fat fees for establishing the fallacy they were heirs to some large estate. That one is almost as old as the gold-brick and has seemingly never worn out with use. But one of the newest flim-flam games tried on the public as a racket worked on smart New Yorkers. Swindlers preying upon their victims' culpability having been selling the information booth in the Grand Central Station as a fruit stand concession. The best known price paid for this ethereal privilege so far has been $2,000.

Probably the best armor against swindlers is to adopt a policy of making no investment without taking time for mature judgment, or consultation with another. Swindlers' games are almost always pulled off quickly, catching their victims off-guard and offering them chances at fabulous wealth, is their trump card. Secrecy is their watch word. The person who takes time to investigate surprisingly profitable deals, and shies from anyone trying to throw the veil of secrecy over such transactions, will be least likely to fall a victim to swindlers, whether he live in the country or in the city.

Roosevelt's Huge Relief Fund

By MARK SULLIVAN

IT is commonly and cynically said that the nearly five billion dollars now turned over to President Roosevelt to expend guarantees his election next year. On precedent the assertion is tenable. Last year, when the Congressional elections were on, the President had a smaller amount for disposal under similar conditions. The money was made, blatantly, to serve the purpose of electing Democratic candidates.

For example, the Democratic Governor of Maine, running for re-election, came to Washington and procured a letter from the President, in which Mr. Roosevelt made a vague quasi-promise to spend a large sum for water power at Passamaquoddy Bay. In Maine during the campaign the Governor read Mr. Roosevelt's letter over the radio. Similar incidents occurred with respect to other Democratic candidates for Governor and Senator.

So clearly was the money appeal recognized that in some cases Republican candidates competed with Democratic ones in making promises that when in Congress they would support the President's policies in order to stand well with the Administration and thereby get a share of the relief money for their districts. In Maryland the Democratic Governor, Albert C. Ritchie, running for re-election, came under a vague suspicion of not standing well with the Administration at Washington. The Republicans, taking advantage of this, let it be understood that if the Republican candidate for Governor were elected he would co-operate with the Administration at Washington and would thereby put himself and Maryland in the good graces of the Administration, so that Maryland might expect generous treatment with respect to relief funds from Washington.

The process through which the Administration profits politically by relief funds does not lie primarily in the fact or expectation that the ultimate beneficiaries, the unemployed, will vote for the source of their alms or their work relief. What happens is that in the states and cities local organizations, such as chambers of commerce, see that nearly $5,000,000,000 is going to be spent. In a familiar spirit of local enterprise they "go after" some of the money. They decide to get some of it for a local project, a bridge, a dam, a road or what not. Their attitude is one which says in effect, "We don't approve these great appropriations, and we think the budget ought to be balanced, but since the money is there we want our share."

The avenue of approach is the Congressman. The chamber of commerce or other body brings pressure on the Representative or Senator who represents the district or state at Washington. The Congressman is made to feel that his standing with his local community is going to be measured by his success in getting a share of the five billion. He is expected to "bring home the bacon." He can only get it, as a rule, by appealing to the President or to some one of the appointees of the President who have charge of the fund.

Thus another political vice comes into existence. The Congressman feels that in order to get some of the money he must stand well with the Administration, and he acts on the principle of the adage which says "whose bread I eat, his song I sing." In this spirit the Congressman supports Administration measures which, if left to his own conscience and judgment, he would not.

This has happened in the past. It may happen again. Yet there are evidences to the contrary. The chambers of commerce and other local bodies which a year ago thought primarily in terms of getting money from Washington tend now to think in terms of paying the bill, in terms of the taxes which sooner or later must be paid to make up the money that is being spent. To a measurable degree the country, especially the type of citizen who belongs to the chamber of commerce and other civic bodies, has become "public debt conscious." It may be that they will go after their share of the money with their accustomed energy; but it may be that in the Presidential election next year they will vote on the side of economy.

A corresponding change has occurred within Congress. Every member knows that the moment Congress voted the five billions to the President it gave the President the familiar "power of the purse" over Congress and all the members of Congress. Nevertheless, there is now in Congress a conspicuous disposition to question the judgment of the Administration, to scrutinize the New Deal critically, and to inspect and amend the measures which the Administration has sent to Congress for enactment.

The cynical and the realistic have been saying that the nearly five billions which the President now has at his disposal is a guaranty of the complete passage of his whole legislative program. It may work out that way. Yet the present mood of Congress is one which doubts whether the whole program should be considered, is opposed to some items of it, and will amend such measures as are taken up.

Even with the nearly five billions in the President's hands, it is most doubtful whether N. R. A., or the social security measures, or the public utility measure will be enacted in the forms in which the President recommended them.

The picture of the first year of the Roosevelt administration, when Congress accepted measures written by the young intellectuals in the Administration and enacted them without changing them, and even without fully understanding them—that picture does not exist today. It is a case in which the facts do not support the cynical assumption about the power of that five billions in the President's hands.

Congress and War Profits

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE underlying question presented by the agitation about war profits is whether the United States should now pass laws that at the declaration of war there shall be an automatic conscription of persons and property and a complete military dictatorship. The traditional American policy has been to have the Congress which declares the war and the succeeding Congresses which continue it decide what drafts on the life and property of the nation are required and are justified. It has been assumed that while the war powers of the President were very great, they should remain subject to the control of Congress. That control consisted in the power of Congress to grant or to refuse man power and funds.

This democratic control of the conduct of war would be swept away under the program which Senator Nye and Representative McSwain are sponsoring. Both bills provide that once war is declared the President can commandeer at the price he fixes the total resources of the American people, and both imply, though they do not appear specifically to say so, that he may conscript an unlimited army. They also, though they do not specifically say so, vest him with powers over all business which could, without any practical difficulty whatever, be used to establish complete control of the printing press, the radio and other means of discussion.

Maybe that is the kind of war machine we ought to have. But we should not set it up unintentionally, as an accidental consequence of a desire to deal with profiteers, or under the delusion that it is anything but what it is: a proposal to create an omnipotent war machine. My own view is that once the people take a good look at this thing they will recoil from it—as the House already has from conscription—saying that they are not going to suspend representative government and have a war dictatorship all signed, sealed and ready for instant delivery in order to have the satisfaction of feeling that at some date in the unknown future, during a war of an unknown character, certain men will not make excessive profits.

This legislation ought to be rejected because it destroys representative government once war is declared. The American national defense, owing to our fortunate geographical position, is based on the theory that the two oceans, an adequate navy and a small professional army, are sufficient protection as a first line of defense, and that behind that shield the nation can take the time to organize as big an army as Congress and the President think necessary in the circumstances of a particular war. The British, who are far closer to any potential aggressor than we are, have not thought it necessary to set up in advance a complete militarism. Were our position like that of France or Germany, we too should probably have to prepare for total and absolute mobilization at the moment war breaks out. But why should we, in our much safer position, suddenly, thoughtlessly, and irresponsibly now put laws on the statute books which mean that the moment Congress declares war, Congress dies and can revive only by consent of the President or by mustering two-thirds of both houses to override him? Does Congress really wish to abdicate in advance? Does it really wish to sign away now its control over life and property? Does it really wish to say that the representatives of the people during a war shall have no right to say how much of the life and property of the people is to be commandeered? If that is what Congress means, it should pass these bills. If it does not mean that, it should stop, look and listen before it goes any further.

As nearly as I can make out what happened was that the authors of these bills became so blindly interested in preventing war profits that they did not realize that they were setting up conscription and dictatorship as the supposed remedies. In their passion to catch every last profiteer they extended the executive war power to the absolute limit in the fear that anything less than an absolute dictatorship might fail to catch a profiteer. The result is grotesque. For however great may be the influence of war profiteers in fomenting and prolonging wars, no sane man can have any doubt that an absolute military machine is a much greater danger to peace. The suppression of war profiteers does not require, and would not be worth the cost if it did require, the destruction of democratic control over war and the establishment in America of an automatic military absolutism.

As a matter of fact, there is no reason why Congress could not legislate intelligently to deal with war profiteers. The tax provisions of the Nye bill, or some modification of them, could be separated from the rest of the bill and put on the statute books. They are probably too drastic and would probably defeat themselves in some measures for that reason, but in principle they are sound enough. Taxation is the most effective way of reaching war profits. Moreover, the more the country taxes and the less it borrows, the less war inflation it will have.

The enactment of such a war tax bill would be a very different thing from giving the President complete power to commandeer everything and it would not seriously tie the hands of Congress after war was declared. If, for example, it seemed desirable, as it did in the last war, to increase the production of wheat by offering high prices and large profits for wheat, the law could be amended. For there is nothing so automatically absolute about a tax bill as there is about the conscription of life and property.

Gone, The Shouting and The Tumult As Legislature Ends

ALBANY—Capitol corridors are empty. Footsteps echo, and shadows infest Senate and Assembly Chamber. The clattering of telegraph machines in the 'wire booths' has been hushed, and newspapermen have slowed their race against time and edition deadlines. Page boys no longer scurry on their errands, and Sergeants-at-Arms have returned to more prosaic and less militant occupations. Legislative clerks no longer drone through weary roll calls. The shouting and the tumult have vanished. The legislature has adjourned—Sic transit gloria mundi.

Looking Backward

Looking back, veteran observers at the State Capitol declare the session which concluded at 3:30 p. m., April 17th after a final grind of nearly thirty hours, was the most extraordinary within their memories. Destined at the beginning to be one of the shortest sessions in legislative history, it turned out to be one of the longest. In the last fifteen years only three sessions continued beyond April 15th. This year's session was the fourth to go beyond that date and it has given the Republican Party more campaign issues than in two decades. It handed the taxpayers a bill for $1,397,000, exclusive of the salaries of the legislators and legislative staffs. It split the Democratic Party in this State wide open, and was characterized, in its final hours by fights, personalities and inter-party revolts in the Democratic camp.

Governor's Victories Doubtful

While it is true that Gov. Lehman was able to steamroller most of his program through the legislature there is widespread belief that he fell heir to doubtful victories. The split he caused in his party gives every reasonable assurance that the Republicans will recapture the Assembly this fall. His insistence on passage of many of his measures, against the wishes of Democratic members of both houses, also brought him antagonism of industry in the State, and the ripper bills introduced and passed during the session, affecting, Nassau, Ulster, Franklin, Tioga, Putnam, Suffolk and Albany Counties, caused strong resentment against him and Democratic members of both houses from the people of the counties involved.

Defeat of Congressional and Senate reapportionment were the most severe set backs the Governor received since he first took office at Albany. His failure to secure ratification of the Federal Child Labor Amendment was also a major defeat, and his compromise on the effective date of Unemployment Insurance, unquestionably weakened his leadership. His fight with Senator John J. Dunnigan, Majority Leader of the Upper House, over Dunnigan's request for a $600,000 appropriation for continuance of the public utility investigation, subsequently reduced to $300,000, is likely to have political repercussions of a very definite character. Dunnigan is the white-haired boy of Bronx Boss Ed Flynn, and the Secretary of State is not one to see his proteges manhandled. Developments will be interesting to watch, a report already being in circulation that Mr. Dunnigan may retire from the Senate and take over the job of disbursing P. W. A. funds in the State.

Special Session Probable

A special session of the legislature is believed probable. It may be called in June or July. Three major proposals are scheduled to come before thesession if is materializes. They are:

Congressional and Senate reapportionment. Adoption of the constitutional amendment to pave the way for pari-mutual betting at New York race tracks, and a complete overhauling of the present Legislative Utility Investigating Committee. If the session is called another effort may be made to pass the Child Labor Amendment, and more Farley ripper bills may be projected.

$630,000 Voted for Inquiries

Despite the war in the Democratic camp during the three weeks before adjournment, special legislative committees will provide many jobs for faithful Democrats during the summer, and some semblance of peace was arrived at to make sure these appropriations and jobs came into being. The Public Utility Investigating Committee led all the rest in appropriations with the $300,000 bequest already mentioned. The Reapportionment Commission drew $25,000 for continuance, and $35,000 was awarded to the committee charged with the duty of investigating ownership of participation certificates. Another $25,000 was appropriated to continue study of tax laws, and $20,000 was put aside to study highway needs and traffic conditions. Continuation of a survey of the Barge Canal drew $25,000 and the same amount was appropriated to survey the black mineral waters at Alden, and the water at Sharon Springs and Richfield Spring with a view of creating State health reservations. Many and varied were the appropriations and they will aid in building up the Democratic machine in upstate districts.

Putnam County Ripper Bill Fails

The climax of the hysterical all night session of April 16th came just before adjournment in the senate on the afternoon of the 17th. It was then that Senator Dunnigan came a terrific cropper, and nerves were so jangled and strained, that veteran members of the Uppen House wept openly.

The jam came when Dunnigan, at the instance of Postmaster-General Farley, attempted to steamroller through the Senate the Putnam County ripper bill which would have abolished the job of a crippled, seventy-year-old war veteran, serving as Supt. of Highways in that county. The bill had previously passed the Assembly by a party vote after G. O. P. members had staged a filibuster of many hours duration. The filibuster, led by Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens (Rep) of Putnam County, was aimed at tiring out Democratic Senators who were anxious to return home for Passover Holidays. However when the bill came before the Senate and Dunnigan attempted to vote his absentee members, Senator George R. Fearon, Minority Leader of Syracuse, protested vigorously. His protest was lost but Democratic Senators suddenly came to Fearon's aid and voted against Dunnigan recording the ballots of absentee members. Dunnigan paled and slumped in his chair at the revolt against his leadership. Senator Fearon, a friend of Dunnigan's for many years, wept openly. Adjournment was taken immediately afterward, Senators emerging from the chamber tired and shaken. Putnam County's Superintendent of Highways now keeps his job, the bill having been recommitted upon motion of Senator Perley A. Pitcher, Watertown Republican.

Fearon and Ives Sum Up Session

Immediately after adjournment both Senator Fearon and Assemblyman Irving M. Ives, Minority Leader of the Lower House, issued brief statements summing up the session. Senator Fearon said in part:

"The Democratic majority has put more bad legislation on the statute books this session than any legislature of recent years. The session dominated as it was by a Democratic Governor, by Postmaster-General Farley and by Democratic majorities in both houses, has been notable for the new obstacles that it has placed in the way of economic recovery, and for its failure even to attempt to solve the problem of unemployment.

"When the Legislature met early in January it had one outstanding problem before it, that was to do what it could to provide jobs for the men and women out of work, and to bring about a return of normal, economic conditions. Instead, it has imposed new burdens upon industry in this State. It has added materially to the cost of doing business and it has placed industries of New York State in a position of unfair competition with the industries of other states. It has added materially to the tax load both of business and of the individual, and it has increased the personal income tax of citizens at a time when citizens are least able to afford to pay it."

Assemblyman Ives, who made an excellent record as Minority Leader in his first year in that post, had the following to say about the session:

"The Legislative session just concluded was characterized by the most amazing disregard for the wishes of the people of this State within my recollection. When the session first began, the Governor attempted to ape the Roosevelt technique and steamroller bills through the legislature without regard to public necessity or expense. When members of his own party revolted at his usurption of the law-making rights of the legislature he was unable to re-establish the entente cordiale which, had it been stressed in the beginning of the session, would have been far more effective in expediting the business of the State than the Simon Legree complex the Governor developed early in January.

"I am particularly proud of the efforts of the Republican Minority in the Legislature this year. Soon after the session began we made it clear that our policy would be to go along with the Governor when it was in the public interest; that we would offer substitute proposals for measures which, while having inherent merit, lacked protective features and guarantees that they would not be perverted to serve sinister ends; we declared further that we would introduce our own program based on an intensive study of the needs of the people of the State.

"Our record in the Legislature this year is there for all to see. We did all that we promised we would do. We aided, and did not obstruct. Where we opposed, we offered intelligent alternatives. Our lines held firm despite vicious onslaughts made against us by the Democratic majority. When the prolonged session was costing the taxpayers $7,000 a day, and the proceedings had deteriorated into legislative chaos, we did everything consistently possible to bring the session to an end and to force passage of needed measures. We opposed, with every resource at our command, the passage of ripper bills affecting home rule in counties, town and villages. We consistently opposed increased taxation and waged vigorous war against the reckless spending policy which has characterized Democratic administrations in this State since the days of former-Gov. Alfred E. Smith. In short, I am convinced that this fall the people will restore the Republican Party to power in the Assembly so that a check may be had upon the Governor and the Democratic-controlled Senate.

Wellington Hammond Succumbs After Two Weeks Serious Illness

dus Center, Wayne County, where he again became associated with Mr. Ballard in the operation of a grist mill. This connection continued for twelve years, until his return to Addison, in 1900. After working for a time in a bicycle factory on Front street, not far from the Eagle Hotel, Mr. Hammond exchanged some land which he owned in Presho for the property on the south side of the Canisteo river, now owned and occupied by Ernest Shelanskey. After six years' residence there he returned to the village where he has since made his home.

Mr. Hammond was married January 14, 1886, to Miss Alma Upham of Presho. A home-loving man, preferring the quiet of his fireside to the excitements of the day, he was little given to social affairs. Nevertheless, his acquaintance was wide and he was held in high esteem by his friends who were legion in number. In his early life he had been affiliated with Montour Masonic Lodge of Painted Post. Although never an office-seeker or active in political affairs, he was an enthusiastic and life-long supporter of the Democratic party. He was scruptiously honest, a friend to everyone and ever eager to do anything he could to help his fellowmen. Congenial, trustworthy, he never failed to impress his personality upon those with whom he came in contact. Of an energetic nature always intent on his task, he was punctual and thorough-going in all his affairs.

Surviving are: his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Ethel Smyth of Addison; a granddaughter, Ruth Anne Smyth. The funeral was held at 3:30 Monday afternoon at the home of his daughter, the Rev. Thomas A. Withey, priest-in-charge of the Church of the Redeemer, officiating. Burial was in Addison rural cemetery. Bearers were: Arthur Mose, R. E. Smith, Daniel J. Colbert, George Widger, Harry Rial and Michael Kerins.

Death Claims Philo Simons

The death of Philo Simons, lifelong resident of this vicinity, occurred at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Jacob Houghtaling of Colwell street. He had been confined to his bed for the preceding week.

Mr. Simons was born in Woodhull August 10, 1856, a son of Ira and Hulda Towner Simons. In early life he went to Freeman, where for a period of twenty years or more he was employed at the Freeman Tannery and also served as fireman at a sawmill operated by Elisha Putnam. During a portion of each year over a considerable period he was also employed by James Swan, a thresher.

On April 10, 1882, Mr. Simons was married to Miss Adelaide M. Runyan, who died October 2, 1916. Since the death of his wife he has resided with his sons, Ervin and Claude of South Addison. He was a man of fine character with a deep interest in religious and poetical subjects. The following verse, one of four of his own composition, which were read at his funeral, pointedly illustrates his belief in his Saviour:

"He died on the cross, my dear friends,
He died there for me and for you,
If you want to go home to His glory
You'll follow Him and you'll go through."

Surviving are: his two sons; also two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Houghtaling of Addison and Mrs. Edward Simons of Tuscarora; and the following nieces and nephews: Mrs. Bert McCarthy of Tuscarora, Mrs. John McCarthy of Wellsville, Rex Houghtaling of Elmira, Floyd Simons of Osceola and Bert Simons of Freeman.

The funeral was held from the home of his sister, Mrs. Houghtaling, at two o'clock, Monday afternoon, the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold, pastor of the Addison Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Addison Rural Cemetery. Bearers were Claude Jackson, William Lewis, Lynn Bly, Henry Sherwood, Ralph Hand and Frank Bates.

Mrs. Miner Entertains Presbyterian Society

The Presbyterian Ladies Missionary Society was entertained Thursday by Mrs. A. B. Miner, assisted by Mrs. Charles A. Miller. The program was in charge of Mrs. Chas. A. Brewster, assisted by Mrs. John Russ. The topics were: "The American Indian", and "Chosen."

The ladies were given a special entertainment of music by two men from Ithaca College, guests of Mrs. W. S. Long, with trumpet and piano selections. Refreshments were served.

The following members were present: Mrs. S. M. LaGrange, Mrs. J. V. Axtell, Mrs. S. D. McDowell, Mrs. Carrie Crittenden, Mrs. Sarah Kittle, Miss Ida Kittle, Mrs. Maurice E. Miller, Mrs. Eva Battin, Mrs. Willis R. Perry, Mrs. Charles Brewster, Mrs. John Russ, Mrs. W. S. Long and the hostesses Mrs. Miner and Mrs. Miller.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY

The annual meeting of the Missionary Society of the Baptist church was held at the church, Thursday April 18 with a picnic dinner at noon followed by the business meeting. Mrs. Albert Root took charge of the meeting in the absence of the president. The Brick Wall contest which has been running for the past six months was won by the Blue side, which was led by Mrs. Lackey as captain. The total number of Bricks earned by the Blues was 481 while the Reds won 424. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Minnie DeCamp, president; Mrs. Nellie Benedict, first vice president; Mrs. Ford Davis, second vice president; Mrs. Thomas Hopper, third vice president; Mrs. Albert Root, secretary and treasurer.

It was announced that the annual Basket Meeting will be held at Bradford, N. Y., May 24.

The committee who had charge of the picnic dinner at this meeting was Mrs. William Levi, Mrs. Guy Cook and Mrs. Alvah Barkalow. Those present were: Mrs. Daniel Lackey, Mrs. Nellie Benedict, Mrs. Simonson, Mrs. Harold Whitmarsh, Mrs. Andrew Hill, Mrs. Carlton Ford, Mrs. Bessie Slocum, Mrs. William Levi, Mrs. Ford Davis, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Guy Cook, Mrs. John Aumick, Mrs. Arthur Rice, Mrs. Frank Hess, Mrs. Lawrence Howard, Mrs. Flora Mose, Mrs. Albert Root, Mrs. L. Samuel M. LaGrange, President
Florence C. Newman, Secretary

The services of Prof. L. M. Hurd, poultry specialist at Cornell, have been engaged by the Steuben County Farm Bureau for a series of meetings to be held Monday and Tuesday, April 29 and 30, at which the rearing of chicks will be discussed.

The first meeting will be held on the farm of Lee Gurnsey at Campbell at 10 A. M. Monday.

The second will be on the farm of Clarence Edwards of Avoca at 2 P. M. Monday.

The third session of the series will be with S. D. Zimmerman of Hornell at 10 A. M. Tuesday April 30.

Still another meeting will be held on the farm of C. A. Stewart and Son of Addison at 2 P. M. Tuesday, April 30.

Problems connected with the rearing of chicks, ways and means of preventing and controlling diseases, will be discussed at each meeting.

Old Home Day At Cameron Mills

Old Home Day at Cameron Mills has now become a fixed institution, but it is thought that a preliminary notice should be published, as has been the custom, even at this early date.

The date of this event is, as usual, the first Saturday in August, which comes this year on August 3rd. All of the regular officials will serve, being re-elected last year, and the regular program will be observed. This will consist of speaking, music, old fashioned dancing, dinner, baseball game, and other sports and various other attractions.

Of course the only way to have a good and successful old home day reunion is for all of the old timers and all others interested to be there and take active part in all activities. So come to Cameron Mills on Saturday, August 3, 1935, and renew your youth if you are getting a little old, and preserve your youth if you are still young.

—A. G. Goff.

Helen and Shirley Auringer Are Hostesses At Easter Party

Helen and Shirley Auringer were hostess to a group of friends at an Easter party Saturday. The event was also in honor of the sixth birthday of Ray William Brown, who received numerous gifts. Refreshments were served, the tables being attractively decorated in a color scheme of lilac and yellow. Prizes were awarded to Ellen McCarthy, Shirley Johnson and Edith May Frost. Others present were: Shirley Ann Frost, Mary McCarthy, Ellen McCarthy, Virginia Brown, Ervilla Mae Andrews.

'Peck's Bad Boy' Rich in Heart Tugs

Suggested by, rather than adapted from, the famous "Peck's Bad Boy" stories that delighted readers a generation ago, the Fox Film screen production of that name, coming on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 28, 29 and 30 to the Avon Theatre, has Jackie Cooper as its star and Thomas Meighan in a story role. "Peck's Bad Boy" is in no sense a "kid's" story. It is a rich human document.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish in this way to express our heartfelt thanks to our many friends for their assistance and sympathy during the illness and following the death of our father and brother, Philo Simons. Especially are we grateful for the beautiful flowers and the use of cars.

Silver Tea For Library Benefit In City Hall Next Wednesday

Excellent Program Arranged—Mrs. S. M. LaGrange, Library Trustee, Says Library Facilities Encourage Self-Development and Aid in Shaping the Course of Lives—Asks Public Support for Event Which is Sponsored by Legion Auxiliary.

The following program has been arranged for the silver tea which is to be given for the benefit of Addison Public Library next Wednesday afternoon, May 1,in the City Hall. The event is sponsored by Williams-Greengrass Unit No. 730, American Legion Auxiliary and indications are that there will be a very large attendance.

Piano solo, Helen Auringer; mellophone solo, Miss Betty Perry; piano duet, Miss Runyan, Mrs. Adsit; violin solo, David Stiker; piano solo Miss Eleanor Hogue; vocal solo, Miss Madeline Short; piano duet, Misses Margaret and Eleanor Hogue; vocal solo, Mr. Fay Axtell; piano solo, Mrs. Reginald LaBourr; duet, piano and trombone, Willis Colburn and Frances Colburn; piano and tuba duet, Frances Colburn and Willis Colburn; string instruments, Stanley Ward, Homer Rouse, Lawrence Benedict, Wyatt Husted, Harold Rice.

In a statement commending the service of the library to the community and asking cooperation of the public to make the silver tea a success, Mrs. Samuel M. LaGrange, one of the library trustees, said yesterday:—

"Addison citizen should make this May 1st a real Gala Day by attending the Silver Tea given by the Legion Auxiliary for the benefit of the Public Library.

"We all appreciate our Public Library and most of us patronize it and wish for many improvements. This latter is possible only with more funds. Many things would be added but for this lack of funds, so the object of this Silver Tea is to help us, the citizens of Addison to help ourselves—by attending or sending a silver donation.

"Someone has said, 'No one can read a book and be the same person afterwards'. There is no greater magic in the world than the printed book. Probably few realize how much the course and pattern of our lives are shaped by books. How necessary then that we choose our books, and here is where our Public Library helps us.

Much has been said about the children's books, a wonderful department of our Library. But what about the adult reading? Here we flind lectur, modern and ancient; Biography, History, Science, Poetry, Travel, Aviation, Trades, Mechanics, Gardening and Floral Culture and good magazines.

These permit one to follow one's taste and thereby to develop themselves and shape the course of their lives.

Now let us as loyal Addisonians show our appreciation of this fine institution by our patronage of this Silver Tea. If not convenient to attend please send your contribution and signify your approval of your Library."
